WORKING PAPER

Project: 8920 (Te-31)
Date: 890615
Viewer: 018
Session: 01

SUMMARY OF INFORMATION:

1. (S/NF/SK) The beginning site was a land/water/structure area. The structures at the land area gave a saw-toothed impression, as well as an area where lots of things were lined up, like a shipping yard.

2. (S/NF/SK) Response to the name ~~SG1A~~, and the question about a meeting, led to the impression that one ship would go wide past another ship, then double back, coming nearer, but still keeping a very wide distance. A man in bright yellow clothing (ADL: rain slicker) is then seen in a small craft, going from one ship to the other with a large, portfolio-type leather pouch. The pouch contains a small green pill bottle with a black cap, and a large (12-14" X 3" X4") soft package wrapped in clear plastic wrap. Inside the clear plastic is a secondary wrapping of reddish color. This man is taking the material from one ship to the other as a "sample". There was the further impression that this "sample" is an actual, full-sized sample, randomly chosen from many.

3. (S/NF/SK) Response to the question "When and where can the ~~SG1A~~ be intercepted with goods?": A repeated impression of a coastline on the western side of a large landmass. The coastline goes in a generally E-W direction, then turns southerly. Right near the turn, there is a wide inlet (possibly a river's mouth). The ~~SG1A~~ intended destination is a spot on the right side (going in), far up in this inlet (see tracker/sketches, page 8).
